CAMPBELLFIELD RACES,

AT a SPECIAL PUBLIC MEETING held this day, 20th day of April, 1847, at Mr. Morris's Hotel, Campbelltown, relative to the proposed races, at Campbellfield, it was resolved (in consequence of certain irregularities that have occurred) that the arrangements made for those races be remodelled, and another judge be appointed in the place of Mr. R. P. Jenkins. The days for racing and the new appointments will appear in a future advertisement, as the original stewards decline acting, with the exception of two, who are absent in the interior. 6734

YASS.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—In your number of the 13th instant, I have just observed a report of a cricket match played here by two rival clubs—the one named Victoria, the other Yass, and as your journal has always favoured the cause of truth, may I as a member, but not a player, of the Victoria Club, flatly contradict that there was any private pique or ill-feeling on the Victoria side; but on the contrary, regret to say a jealousy appeared to exist in the minds of the Yass Club, which was nearly igniting into a flame through their defeat

As their last resource when they found all means unavailing, they laid a heavy and false accusation on the scorers' shoulders—they being men who would scorn an act of such a nature, and who are ready to make affidavit that the gross number of notches were 176 against 131, thereby beating the Yass Club by five runs. Now, gentlemen, as it is not my intention to comment much upon matters of so little or no importance to the public, I beg to say through your valuable journal that I am authorised in the name of the whole of the Victoria Club to challenge our discontented opponents to play for a public dinner, and whatever they may think proper to wager upon their bats respectively.

It is further hoped and expected that the beaten side will be satisfied, without any show of pique, malice, or contention, as it is the Victorians wish to be in harmony with their fellow-cricketers.

And am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
A MEMBER, BUT NOT A PLAYER, OF THE VICTORIA CLUB.

SYDNEY MARINE INSURANCE OFFICE.

THIS Office, established by the late Hutchinson Bell, Esq., in 1846, at the instance of several of the principal merchants of Sydney, (in consequence of the Companies then established having suspended their operations), is continued to be conducted by the undersigned, who procures and delivers policies on ships and merchandise by the same Underwriters and on the same principle as heretofore—namely, by means of the subscriptions of individual underwriters of undeniable responsibility, according to the practice followed at LLOYDS.

Policies underwritten to all parts of the world.

Insurance also effected on approved coasters.

Parties requiring dispatch can have their policies completed immediately on acceptation.

SAMUEL H. SMYTH,
6813 489, George-street.

MARINE ASSURANCES.

THE undersigned, at the suggestion of several merchants, begs to notify that he is prepared to receive orders for the Insurance of Ships and Merchandise, and deliver polices to be underwritten by parties of undeniable responsibility.

MR. A. CAMPBELL BROWN begs to intimate that he has commenced business as BROKER and AUCTIONEER, in those central and extensive premises, No. 451, George-street, opposite the Commercial Bank (which were recently occupied by Messrs. Fisher and Clarke), and respectfully solicits a share of the business of importers, settlers, and others.

Sydney, 26th April. 6761

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, RICHMOND.

THE undersigned, Treasurer of the above fund, begs leave to lay before the subscribers and the public a statement of their subscriptions received, with the application thereof, showing the balance in his hands; and also to inform them, that in consequence of the hopelessness of that fund ever realising the amount requisite to accomplish that object, he withdrew his own subscription and the interest accumulated thereon in February, 1846, when other funds were resorted to and a church built, and will be opened for Divine Service in the course of the ensuing month.

NOTICE.

DR. M'CRAE begs to inform his Patients, particularly those residing at a distance in the country, but who come occasionally to town for the purpose of consulting him, that having been recommended by his medical advisers to reside two or three weeks at the South Head for the restoration of his health, he has made the following arrangement: He has taken as his assistant DR. WM. KING, a Physician of Edinburgh, of thirteen years standing, who, before he graduated, was, like Dr. M'Crae, an articled pupil of Professor Lizars; and having been also an inmate of the Professor's house during nearly seven years, he enjoyed the advantage of seeing both his practice in private and in the Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh. Dr. King will reside at Dr. M'Crae's house, in Lyons-terrace, and attend to any calls; and Dr. M'Crae will be in Sydney three days a week, viz., on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays, for the purpose of seeing Dr. King's cases, advising with him about them, and also for his own consultations, which will take place as usual from 1 to 3. 6291

HORSE AUCTIONS.

THE undersigned, having been authorised to hold Sales by auction, begs to announce that he is ready to receive orders for the sale of every description of live stock, in town or out of it.

As his premises are in a central situation, near to all the most important places of business, it is his intention to have, if possible, a sale of horses every Saturday, at twelve o'clock.

Having resolved not to deal in horses on his own account, he will not compete with other bidders, and therefore the company will always have a fair chance of getting whatever bargains may be going.

JOHN STEWART,
Veterinary Surgeon.

THE CHEAPEST STORE IN THE DISTRICT!

J. SIMMONS, in once more calling the attention of the inhabitants of the above district and the surrounding settlers, dealers, and others, to his General Store, would beg to observe, without the apprehension of being accused of "puffing," that he is prepared to sell (as he has hitherto done) at such prices as cannot fail to give satisfaction to his customers, and prove that is, without doubt, the cheapest in the district, for the truth of which assertion he does not appeal to the "involuntary" remark of some "one" or "other," but to the voluntary evidence of all his customers!! His continued increase of business fully proves it, and one thing may always be relied upon, viz., every customer, from one penny to one hundred pounds, will be treated with that "civility" which should characterise the dealings of those storekeepers who are anxious to secure the favours of the public.

☞ A still further reduction in the price of tea, sugar, and tobacco. 6663

STAR HOTEL,

459 AND 461, GEORGE-STREET, NEARLY OPPOSITE THE POST-OFFICE.

ARCHIBALD MENZIES takes this opportunity of informing his friends, and the public generally, that he has removed to the above spacious premises, and begs to state that no means shall be spared to make them as comfortable as any other Hotel in the City, and on more moderate terms.

LUNCH will be on the table every day at one o'clock precisely.

SETTLERS will find the Star Hotel offers in one house the combined comforts and conveniences which hitherto they have been compelled to seek, one at one and another at another.

Good accommodation for horses, and a good groom on the premises. 5295

RICHARD EDWARDS

BEGS to inform his customers and the public in general, that his new and superior carriages being now completed, he is prepared to execute any orders with which he may be favoured, in a manner which cannot fail to give entire satisfaction. R. E. having spared no expense to render his equipages superior to any hitherto seen in Sydney.

Wedding and other parties supplied with carriages, four in hand, or postillion, in first-rate style, at moderate prices.

SHIPS' MAILS.

Mails will be closed at the Post Office, as follows:—

For Melbourne. — By the Thomas Lord, this evening, at 6.

For Port Nicholson.—By the William Hill, Star of China, and Comet, this evening, at 6.

For the Cape of Good Hope via Launceston. — By the Maid of Cashmere, tomorrow evening, at 6.

For England via Valparaiso.—By the Alexander, on Friday evening, at 6

For Tahiti.—By the Arche d'Alliance, on Friday evening, at 6.

For London.—By the Ann Milne, (P O.P.) on Friday evening, at 6; and the Sydney on the evening of the 7th May, at 6.

For Hobart Town.—By the Louisa, on Saturday evening, at 6

 A ship was signalled to the southward yesterday evening, at sunset, but had not entered the Heads up to two o'clock, this morning.

The Pandora has made an excellent voyage, having been absent from Sydney only 162 days including a detention in loading at Hongkong of thirty-eight days, and at Manila fourteen. She has been fifty-seven days only on the passage from the latter port. She reports having spoken, on Saturday last, off King's Island, the ship Robert Matthews from London, bound to Launceston, 129 days out, all well.

The ship London, Captain Gibson, and the schooner Oratava, from Sydney, arrived at Hongkong about the latter end of January. The Centaur sailed from there, for Sydney, on the 16th January last.

The barque Ann Bates was to sail from Manila, for Sydney, about a week after the Pandora.

The Fama reports having passed a schooner off Wilson's Promontory on Saturday last, at noon, apparently bound for this port.

LATER ENGLISH NEWS.

The Pandora having spoken the Robert Matthews, from London to Launceston, we have been favoured by Captain Cobb with London papers of the 11th and 12th December, from which we have given copious extracts.

The only news of importance was the increasing state of destitution of the Irish poor. The amount of the deaths by starvation is appalling, and the remarks of the Cornbroker's Circular furnish matter for the most serious apprehension.

We shall look with the greatest anxiety for further intelligence, for the winter that was setting in bore a most gloomy aspect.

BARRISTERS' RULES.

The report of yesterday's proceedings in the Supreme Court will be read with great interest. The monopoly which the barristers at present enjoy, renders it necessary that their proceedings should be watched with peculiar attention; and we consider that His Honor the Chief Justice has laid the public under a very deep obligation by his notice of the exhibition recently made of barristers changing sides during the progress of a case through the Court. So long as the rules made by the Bar affect only their conduct towards one another, the public have no right to interfere with or complain of them; but when they make rules which affect the interest of suitors, it is useless for the Bar to attempt to assert that they are irresponsible. From the remarks made by the Attorney-General, we presume the rule under which a barrister, after becoming acquainted with the secrets of A.'s case, may take a fee from the other side, will be altered: but the only real remedy will be to do away with the division of the Bar. Had an attorney been guilty of deserting his client, and going over to his opponent, he would very probably have been struck off the rolls.

NORTH AUSTRALIA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Facing Island, North Australia, 30th March, 1847.

I wrote you on the 16th and 22nd instant, both of which letters I hope you duly received. I have very little at present to communicate; but as the cutter Harriett leaves for Moreton Bay to-morrow morning, I write, agreeably to your instructions to do so, by every opportunity. We are still in precisely the same condition as on the day we landed, living in a state of primitive but uncomfortable simplicity in our tents. I believe Colonel Barney is waiting the arrival of the steamer for definite instructions as to his future movements. the cargoes of the Lord Auckland and the Thomas Lowry not being discharged.

The newly appointed magistrates are about to have two opportunities of exercising their magisterial functions: the first, in a case of trifling assault, committed by a servant of one of the officers of the Commissariat upon a gentleman belonging to the same department, which comes on for hearing on the 6th proximo; the next, in a case of a graver character: a sailor belonging to the Harriett, lying at Port Curtis, being on the beach this morning, discovered a soldier drowning in the sea, in about five feet depth of water He was immediately rescued from the perils of the water to suffer one of the many on the land. A cask of wine belonging to Colonel Grey had been stolen and broached, and was found near the spot almost empty; and it is supposed that this unfortunate man had partaken largely of it and staggered into the sea, unconscious of his danger, while under its influence. On enquiry it was discovered, that several of the military had been drunk during the night; and several of them, together with a civilian, are at present in custody, awaiting the determination of the magistrates. I have this moment received this information from the sailor who saved the man, who was still insensible at the time of the sailor's leaving Port Curtis (several hours after being taken out of the water) and no particulars could be learned from him. This is another of the many thousand instances of evil arising from the presence of intoxicating liquors. We have been without it altogether, and although nine weeks on the island (save the assault above mentioned) there has not been the slightest disturbance. The passengers by the Thomas Lowry are all landed at Port Curtis May God send the steamer soon. You may conceive that we are most uncomfortably situated.

We have not been blessed with a candle, or a drop of oil, since landing. The only light we have at night is the moon, when it shines, and our bush fires.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—Tuesday.

BANCO SITTINGS.

Before their Honors the three Judges.

BARRISTERS RETAINERS.

The Attorney-General said that he would beg leave to draw the attention of the Court to a case which had occurred a few days since, in which some remarks had fallen from His Honor the Chief Justice with reference to two members of the bar, and with respect to which His Honor had made some further remarks on a subsequent day, in consequence of having received a remonstrance from one of the attorneys. These latter observations had appeared in the Sydney Morning Herald unaccompanied by any more detailed statement of the case, and the members of the Bar, conceiving that these remarks might be understood to imply a jurisdiction by the Court which they were not prepared to assent to, had requested him (the Attorney-General) to protest most strongly, although at the same time, most respectfully, against the assumption of any such jurisdiction. He deemed it necessary to remind the Court that on every occasion in which the usages or practice of the Bar had been brought under the cognizance of the Judges in England, the latter had always disclaimed any jurisdiction over the Bar in these matters. The learned Attorney-General referred, in proof of this statement, to a case in which the Lord Chancellor (Eldon) had expressly disclaimed such a power, although he had consented as amicus curiæ to hear and determine a petition which had reference to a question of retainer, at the request of the gentleman concerned. He (the Attorney-General) then proceeded to remark that what could not be done directly, ought not to be done indirectly, and although his Honor the Chief Justice had expressly disclaimed any desire to dictate rules to the Bar, the members of that branch of the profession did not think it fair that extra judicial observations should be made which might be regarded as reflecting upon their practice. For the information of the Court he would state that a meeting of the Bar had been called for the purpose of considering the practice of retainers, so that the whole question was now in the hands of those competent to deal with it. Under any mode of practice difficulties would occasionally arise, and when this was the case, it was the practice to refer to a brother barrister, or to call together and consult as many of the profession as could be conveniently assembled. So far back as the 10th instant one of the gentlemen concerned in the present case, feeling a difficulty on the subject of his retainer, had suggested the propriety of calling a meeting for the consideration of the whole subject. This meeting had therefore been called before the circumstances which he now drew the attention of the Court to had occurred. His learned brethren were most anxious to preserve the friendly relations which had hitherto subsisted between the Bench and Bar, and it was in order to prevent any collision or misunderstanding which might interrupt this good feeling that he had been requested to protest, with all due respect to their Honors, against the assumption of any such jurisdiction on the part of the Bench.

The Chief Justice said, that in the first place he must express his gratification at the temperate and gentlemanly manner in which the learned Attorney-General had addressed the Court. Without derogating from his firmness of manner and of language, the remarks of the learned gentleman had been distinguished by that courtesy which characterised all his actions. He (the Chief Justice) must remark in the outset that nothing would give him greater pain than the probability of any collision between the Bench and the Bar. Since he first had the honour of a seat on that Bench, it had been his study to cultivate relations of friendship and good feeling with the gentlemen of the Bar, and he had happily succeeded in so doing. He trusted, therefore, that this harmony would not be interrupted by anything which had fallen from him at the time alluded to; nor did he apprehend any such results if a careful consideration was given to these remarks. He did not make these observations without previous consideration, for the question was one which had long occupied his mind, and he had before him the best work on the subject of retainers, from the pen of Mr. Basil Montague, which he had received from that gentleman himself, with whom he had conversed upon the subject. This work defended the present system, but he had also before him a more lengthened treatise upon the same subject in the Law Magazine, by which the opposite view was argued. The determination which he had expressed the other day was one which he was prepared and determined to adhere to, and he had no desire to shrink from the responsibility of so doing. He had expressly declared that in making these remarks he spoke only for himself, for he had not consulted with his learned brethren on the Bench, and although he had, as he stated, no reason to suppose that they differed from him in opinion, he did not know whether they might be inclined to offer any observations on the subject. He was far from desirous of assuming any actual jurisdiction over the Bar; nor had he the most remote desire of punishing the members of the profession for any matter springing out of mere rules. He had, however, laid down a principle for himself which he was determined to abide by. It was his sworn duty as a Judge, to see that no injustice was done; and although he entertained for the Bar the most deep respect; although he was aware that they occupied a high social position, which it was important for them as well as for the public, to maintain, he looked upon them in that Court as ministers of Justice assisting the Bench to dispose rightly, and with fairness, of the claims of the suitors. He had expressly disclaimed all authority or intention to interfere except in a case where he might see clearly that the interests of the suitors, to which those of the Bar were subservient, would be likely to suffer if he refrained from doing so. As it was much easier to illustrate his meaning by putting a case, than by any other means, he would at once do so. He would suppose a suit in which the plaintiff's case, although based in justice, contained some point which it was desirable to have passed lightly over, and others which it was important to keep out of view from the other side. He would also suppose that a barrister after having become master of all the intricacies of the plaintiff's case, should, in consequence of some slip on the part of the attorney, of which the opposite attorney had taken advantage, be retained for the defendant, and should feel himself bound by any such retainer to attack the case he formerly studied to defend. If it were represented to him (the Chief Justice) that such circumstances had occurred, he should see clearly that the interests of justice were likely to suffer, and he should so far interfere, as to refuse to sit for the trial of such a case, He would not permit any such an exhibition to take place in his presence; and, as he had before said, he would rather retire from the Bench altogether than become a party to any such proceeding. This, however, was not the nature of the case which occurred the other day, but still the decree was not settled, an alteration in the minutes which was sought would have been most material to the parties. The appearance of such a change in the advocates, therefore, in the eyes and estimation of the public, was most undesirable and to be regretted. A Judge really anxious for the welfare and reputation of the Bar, could hardly avoid noticing such an occurrence; but no blame was attached to the gentlemen engaged in this case as advocates, because it was obvious that they had considered themselves, by their rules, to be deprived of all discretion in this matter. It was one of the attorneys who had availed himself of these rules to select from all the gentlemen of the Bar his opponent's counsel. Speaking as an individual, he had no respect whatever for the rules of the Bar with reference to retainers Indeed, so far from approving of these rules, he actually despised them, and if he were a member of the Bar he would cast them to the winds in every case where they had a tendency to embarrass him, or to lead to an undesirable or questionable position. The gentlemen of the Bar were undoubtedly quite competent to make rules for themselves, but with every respect for their opinion, he could not help entertaining, as a private individual, the view which he had mentioned. The advocates of that Court were apt to identify themselves most strongly with the interests of their clients, occasionally to such an extent as to be even painful to the Court, and such changes of position as those he had alluded to could not fail to injure the reputation of the Bar in the minds of the public, who neither could nor would understand the influence of professional rules to this extent. If he said anything which could be regarded as disrespectful to the Bar, he could only say that he had no intention whatever of doing so, as his only desire was to perform satisfactorily his own duty as a Judge of that Court, and to discharge with efficiency the obligations which in that position he owed to the suitors.

The Attorney-General remarked, that no case could be more opposed to the supposititious one put by the Chief Justice than the one which drew forth the former remarks from his Honor He also reminded the Court that, according to the opinion expressed by Lord Eldon, the Bar was public property. Their services were open to all, but they identified themselves with none; and the interests of the public would sustain the most serious injury if a barrister was permitted to choose his own client.

The Chief Justice remarked, that he had already disclaimed any desire to treat the case which had already occurred as one which could be productive of actual injury to the suitors.

The Attorney-General replied, that acting on the part of the Bar, he felt bound to protest against what had fallen from his Honor, as well upon the present as upon the former occasion.

IRVING v. GANNON AND ANOTHER.

This was a motion for a new trial in an action of ejectment, the argument of which had, for the most part, taken place on a previous day, and was now concluded.

The Court reserved judgment.

AYRANE v. REILLY.

This was an action to recover rent, in which the only question was, whether there was a surrender in point of law of the tenantcy, which was a tenantcy from year to year.

The cause was tried before Mr. Justice Dickinson and a jury of four, in June last.

It appeared that the plaintiff had let a house in George-street to the defendant, that the defendant held over, and afterwards desired to get quit of the premises, to which the plaintiff gave a qualified assent, that if the defendant could obtain another good tenant, he would accept him and discharge the defendant; the defendant then procured one Cohen to agree to take them, and the plaintiff assented to take Cohen as his tenant; but Cohen afterwards declined to take them, and the key was at one time in Cohen's possession, who returned it afterwards to Reilly, in whose possession it was found. The question therefore, was, whether the facts proved amounted to a surrender in law.

Mr. Windeyer argued the case for the plaintiff, and contended that there was no surrender, and cited several cases, and also relied on the Statute of Frauds.

Mr. Michie opposed the motion.

The Court took time to consider.

Business for To-day.—The full Court will sit at eleven o'clock, this morning, in its Insolvency Jurisdiction, to dispose of such business as may be brought before it.

WESLEYAN MISSIONS.

The Annual Meeting of the New South Wales Auxiliary took place on Tuesday evening, in the Centenary Chapel, York-street. The business of the meeting was commenced by singing a hymn, followed by a prayer offered up by the Rev. Mr. Harris; after which Mr. Alderman Allen, M.L.C., was called on to take the chair, and on doing so, briefly stated his ardent attachment to missionary exertions. He then called upon the Secretary, the Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, to read the Report of the past year. From this document it appeared that the receipts of the Wesleyan Missionary Society from all sources during the year had been £112,823 9s 6d; the disbursements during the same period, £112,056 14s 8d.; leaving a balance in favour of the Society of £766 14s. 10d. So that the Society is now out of debt. The following summary of its present state in regard to its operations was also laid before the meeting:—Central or principal stations, 284; chapels and other preaching stations, 2522; Missionaries and Assistant Missionaries, 397; other paid agents, 847; other unpaid agents, as Sunday-school teachers, &c, 6832; full and accredited Church members, 103,130; on trial for Church membership, 4315; scholars, deducting for those who attend both day and Sabbath schools, 71,625; printing establishments, 8; that in Ireland twenty missionaries were at work, and 1600 children attending the Mission Schools; that the efforts of the Society were being successful in Germany. In France great good had been accomplished. In Paris the Committee of the Parent Society had agreed to a proposal for renting on lease the old church St. of Vincent de Paul, which would afford such accommodation as the present state of the Wesleyan Mission in that city required. Complaints of the missionaries respecting Sabbath desecration from France were very strong; while the beneficial effects of Sunday-schools were admitted to be now becoming very evident in every part of that kingdom where they had been put in operation. The Revolution in Switzerland had on the whole been unfavourable to the objects of the mission. The Government troops had been quartered in the Missions Chapel, and since then the Romish and persecuting spirit of the civil authorities had caused public religious services to be discontinued in that place. The efforts of the Society were successful in Spain. In India there was an evident tendency to support the mission, the school department being in an efficient state, and patronized by the civil authorities. There are thirty seven missionaries and assistant missionaries belonging to the Society at work in this portion of the Heathen world, where the field of mission labour is still, from the density of the population (comparatively speaking) destitute of labourers. In Australasia and Polynesia, the Report stated that, as regards the number of Church members, the finances from ordinary sources, the number of hearers, and the extent of Church accommodation, the Society was in a healthy state. The mission to the natives at Bushy Dale, in Australia Felix, had still many difficulties to encounter, but hope was still entertained that they will be overcome. At Swan River, during the past year, eighteen native youths had been baptised, the native school and the experimental farm in that colony were said to be prospering. In New Zealand it had been ascertained that of the numerous and influential tribes connected with the Wesleyan Missionary Society, not a hand had been raised during the late war, in opposition to British authority. In the Friendly Islands, where the Society commenced its labours, soon after it was organized, things were assuming an aspect at once peaceful, civil, and and Christian; idolatry was passing away, the prejudices of the people were yielding, and wherever the Wesleyan missionaries went, they were made welcome, and listened to with attention. The chief opposition appeared to be from Romish missionaries who had met with but little success. The intelligence from the Feejee Islands, conveyed through the Report was, that the character of the inhabitants was revolting to an enlightened mind, still some Fejeeans had embraced Christianity, and numbers of them had renounced Heathenism. The Society's missionaries were successful at the different stations in South Africa, and daily acquiring greater influence. The Society having at least forty missionaries with their assistants, all at work in that part of the world, who had succeeded in bringing between three and four thousand of the aborigines into connection with the Church visible. In Western Africa the servants of the Society had been eminently successful, by inducing many to forego their practices in the slave trade, and the missionaries can now preach there without restraint in the public streets. At Sierra Leone, spacious chapels are being erected, and the school department was still improving. The Society had had missions in the West Indies for thirteen years, where every description of opposition had been encountered, but was now so far overcome, that many of their opponents had become their friends and supporters of the Society's missionaries. In these islands alone the Society has eighty-six missionaries at work, who have 33,000 Church members under their care, and 60,000 hearers. There are missionaries in the employ of the Society at work in Eastern and Western Canada, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Newfoundland, as well as several others in the territory belonging to the Hudson's Bay Company. At most of these stations capacious places of worship had been erected, and were in general well attended. The Report concluded with an interesting account of the success which had attended the Society's efforts among the various tribes of Indians on the American continent.

The monetary affairs of the Society, so far as this colony was concerned, was stated to the meeting by the Rev. Mr. Boyce.

The Rev. R. Mansfield then moved the following as the first resolution:—"That the Report, which has been now read, be adopted and printed, with a list of the subscribers to this Auxiliary Society." In making this proposal to the meeting, Mr. Mansfield stated that the present was one of the most interesting which he had ever attended, and after referring at considerable length to the details given in the Report, called the attention of the meeting to the circumstance of the Parent Society being out of debt, which a few years ago might have been regarded as a Eutopian dream, still, although the Society had some funds, to the amount of £700 and upwards, that would soon be swallowed up by the Society's endeavouring to meet the demands made on it He emphatically denied that anything like sectarianism was involved in the principles on which the Wesleyan Missionary Society was conducted. He loved to hear of the exertions which are making by the London, the Church, the Baptist, and Scotch Missionary Societies. As to the question of Church discipline, he regarded it as the mere scaffolding for the purpose of adorning the House of Him whose servants all of them professed to be; and he, for one, would rejoice to see such distinctions done away with, so as to remove those temporal barriers which at present prevent all true followers of the Cross from uniting in the missionary cause

The Rev. J. Innes having seconded the resolution, it was put to the meeting from the Chair, and unanimously adopted.

The Rev. Dr. Ross moved the next resolution:—"That the success which has attended the labours of the Wesleyan and other Evangelical Missionary Societies, calls for devout thanksgiving to the God of all Grace, and to renewed exertions in his Divine cause." He entered into a conjecture as to the consequence to the world at large if the whole of the Protestant missions were to be given up, and if the Bible were to cease to be circulated. It was matter of thankfulness that they did not meet that evening to deplore such events; but, rather, in terms of the resolution, to record their grateful praise for the blessing which the Great Head of the Church had poured down upon the Wesleyan and other Missionary Societies. He said it would be matter for thankfulness if their Societies had been merely stationary—had simply existed—but that thousands had been converted to the knowledge and faith of Jesus Christ, was ground for unceasing praise. He then entered largely into the benefits which missions had conferred upon the heathen, and pointed out in strong and forcible language, the duty of every Christian to contribute according to his means, so that more labourers may be sent forth to preach the unsearchable riches of Christ. Before sitting down, Dr. Ross observed, that he would take the liberty of adverting to a circumstance that had lately occurred in this colony—the landing of about sixty natives from the islands of Tanna and the New Hebrides, for the purpose of being employed as shepherds in the squatting districts. If the representations of those who introduced them were to be believed, we shall soon be freed from the necessity of sending missionaries to these islands, for they assure us that among other advantages which these savages will derive from being located among us, this will be one, that they will receive instruction in the Christian religion. How they are to receive it they do not tell us—by whom they are to be taught they do not tell us. We know that in the districts to which they have been carried, consisting of some hundreds of square miles, there is but one clergyman, who, at distant intervals only, are able to visit the stations — and if he has, in addition to his present duties, to take under his care, the religious education of these cannibals, and that too in a language which he does not understand, we must heartily pity the poor man. The whole matter is wrong—politically, religiously wrong. We protest, as strongly as language will permit us to use, against the introduction of these savages into our country. They are savages of the most ferocious kind—sunk in the lowest stages of barbarism—of the same class as those who cruelly murdered our missionary Williams—moving about in their own islands in a state of absolute nudity—and polluted with all the vices of the grossest heathenism They are savages among whom even our missionaries could not live. At Tanna, two of the most pious and devoted agents of the London Missionary Society were employed for nearly twelve months in endeavouring to instruct them in the knowledge of Christianity; but after a series of difficulties and privations, they were obliged in an hour of great and imminent danger to flee for their lives. Since then, another effort was made by sending native teachers among them. One of them they killed, and the others were obliged to leave. And yet there are many that have been brought here to mingle with our rural population, and to put in jeopardy the lives of our women and children. They are cannibals, too, and cannibals of the worst kind. It is pretended that they are only driven to this by starvation; and that if they had plenty of other food they would not devour men. This statement I believe to be incorrect; and in this opinion I am supported by Mr. Howe, of Tahiti, who is now sitting beside me The islands in which they live are extremely fertile, and a small amount of labour is sufficient to secure in abundance the fruits of the field. They are not driven by the cravings of hunger to cannibalism, but by the cravings of taste, by habit, by long-continued practice. It is not their enemies only whom they eat—those whom they have conquered in battle; but one another. The inhabitants of one village, when travelling to another village, if alone, is in danger of being seized and murdered, in order that they may feast upon his body. And yet these are the men who are to roam over our pastures, who are to have the care of our flocks, who are to form a part of our population, and who are to be made Christians by merely coming in contact with the dwellers in the bush. The whole proceeding is monstrous The voice of the public I hope will be raised against it; and I shall be happy, if by means of the statements I have now made, so much attention may be drawn to the subject as shall prevent perseverance in a system that must ultimately prove injurious to the best interests of the colony.

The Rev. Mr. Hurst seconded the motion, and it was unanimously carried.

The Rev. William Howe (of the London Missionary Society), on his return from Tahiti, proposed the third resolution:—"That while this meeting acknowledges the sacred obligations of the Church of Christ, to send the Gospel 'into all the world that it may be preached to every creature,' and rejoices in the providential openings for extended missionary labour in many lands It laments that so many millions of our redeemed race should still be left either to sit in darkness, or be possessed by Antichrist, and by divine grace resolves upon increasing prayer, and enlarged Christian zeal and liberality for the universal spread of the glorious Gospel of the blessed God." In speaking to this resolution, Mr. Howe addressed himself throughout to the importance of missionary exertions; to the great advantages which had already been gained by preaching the gospel to heathens, and to the manifest blessings which had accompanied the distribution of the Holy Scriptures. He entered largely into the affairs of the Tahitian mission, with which for several years he had been immediately connected, and exhibited, from his own observation and experience, views of the character and disposition of the natives there now, in contrast from those which were presented before the benign influence of Christianity reached them. He said that above a million of heathens had been converted to the Christian faith by means of Wesleyan missionaries. He had been reminded by the mention of the Feejee Islands of many interesting circumstances. One of which was that of a man who had been absent from Tahiti for fifteen years. He had gone to the Feejee Islands to teach the natives there the Christian religion. While there he underwent great privations, and on several occasions the oven was heated in which it was intended to roast him; but his life was spared, and he continued labouring there until the Feejee missions were taken up by the Wesleyan Missionary Society. When he came back to his own country, after so long an absence, he pursued a course of untiring exertions for the spiritual good of his fellow-men; and during a sanguinary contest had told his countrymen, (instead of leading them to battle), let every man see that his heart is right with God. The same man died in the hope of a blessed immortality. In Tahiti, one of the natives who was an aged man, was in the practice of remaining at home with the women and children, while the warriors were gone to the mountains, where they were offering up prayers night and morning for all they held dear, and he in like manner exhorted his countrymen to abstain from violence, merely to act on the defensive, and to place their main dependence on the Supreme Being. The prayer of a young man, a native of Tahiti, was also quoted as an illustration of the good effects produced by the exertions of missions in that part of the globe; and it was broadly stated that in no instance had the Christianized portion of the inhabitants of these islands attacked their assailants, and that they had uniformly acted on the defensive during the whole time that the contest between them and the French has been progressing. Mr. H. also stated, that so far as his opinion went, those individuals who had lately introduced some islanders into this colony as labourers and shepherds, had done wrong in not procuring them from the Christianised islands, instead of the islands at present inhabited by savages and cannibals. He also gave a glowing description of the fertility of the groups, which had been visited by him, every isle of which he stated was capable of maintaining, with slight exertion, double its present number of inhabitants. In the bay of Papeite he had himself counted twenty-five vessels at anchor, all at the same time. In mentioning this fact, he said the captains of many of the vessels which visited these islands were often referred to as persons competent to give an opinion as to the real state of affairs in them; but he assured the audience they were not so. They were too much engaged in the affairs of temporal life, and which led them to make transitory visits to these islands, to allow them time to form a correct opinion as to the habits or customs of the islanders. As an instance, he mentioned that when a missionary meeting was to be held lately in the vicinity of London, it was currently reported that a sea captain who had been long engaged in the whaling trade, was to be present for the purpose of contradicting the statements which had been made by a returned missionary, and which were to be reiterated at the meeting. The meeting was held, but the captain declined the contest. The reverend gentleman concluded a most powerful address, by calling on young men to come forward and embark in missionary work, by directing their attention to the immense empire of China as a field rapidly opening for them to exercise all their talents and Christian principles in. He also stated as an encouragement to go forward in such a work, that it was one of the principles of methodist missions to be restless; that it had already been the means of doing much good; and that, although the Catholic missions from the whole of Catholic Europe had been able to collect annually about £140,000 per annum, that if they estimated the sums raised among the Protestant portion of the globe for missionary purposes, they would soon discover that the balance was greatly in favour of the Protestant view of the question.

[The collection was then made.]

The Rev. Mr. Turner seconded the resolution by stating that he had been for several years engaged as a missionary among the Polynesian Islands. That such was the gross ignorance which prevailed in the Feegee Islands, that one of the natives named Peter had told him (Mr. T) that he considered him as being 300 years old, as he knew so much, He had also been seven years a missionary in New Zealand, and while there a loud call had been made for native missionaries from the Southern Island, in consequence of which one Charles Stephen was selected, but he declined going, alleging that he was bound with a chain, thereby referring to some debt for which he was liable, which showed the high spirit of honour by which these islanders are actuated. Another native, who had been baptised under the name of "Simon Peter" had, subsequent to his admission into the visible Church, shown symptoms of mental anxiety, and being asked respecting the cause, said that he had not been bearing good fruit, as he had been crying about the death of Christ. He (Mr. T) prayed with and for him, and when the same individual was laid on his death-bed, it was his dying request to the Redeemer that he might be removed from time and all its scenes, in order that he might be with his Saviour.

The Rev. Mr. Harris briefly supported the resolution.

The fourth resolution, as follows, was moved by the Rev. T. Adams, and seconded by the Rev. J Thrum: "That the thanks of this Meeting be presented to the Officers and Committee of the Auxiliary Society, and that the following persons be elected for the ensuing year, viz:—Treasurers—The Rev. W. B. Boyce, and T W. Bowden. Secretaries—Rev. T. B. Harris, and Mr. G. F. Poole. Committee—All the Wesleyan ministers in the district, with Messrs Weiss, Iredale, Caldwell, Piper, Inder, Blanchard, Neale, Vickery, Smith, Greer, Cockburn, Cowlishaw, and Oakes

After the customary thanks to the Chairman, &c., the meeting separated

GENERAL REMARKS.

Tuesday, 20.—Morning west-south-westerly breezes and a dry clear atmosphere; between nine and ten A.M. south wind arose suddenly, and blew in strong gales all day; some heavy cumuli passing over afternoon and hazy. Evening more moderate, but again blew hard through the night; some spitting showers at intervals.

Wednesday, 21.—Strong southerly wind from after nine o'clock, with cold rain in squalls at intervals from that quarter; stormy nimbi kept gathering over from the north-east and east during the forenoon, and continued coarse and squally with heavy showers at intervals, from east of south through the afternoon. Night, wind moderate, rainy, dirty weather.

Thursday, 22.—Wind from south-south-west, light forepart. Violent rains before nine o'clock, and continued in frequent showers till noon, then cleared in part and sun shone till about three o'clock, after which wind veered by east to north-east, blew in squalls, with driving showers, and nearly calm intervals till sunset; then no rain, and light north-east breezes till ten; subsequently showery, but moderate through the night

Friday, 23.—Incessant rains during this day till sunset, at times in heavy showers, clouds low and murky; wind moderate, and veered from north-east to north-west, and back to north toward evening. After sunset weather held up for a while, then heavy rains again, and again cleared up before midnight, and remained fair.

Saturday, 24.—Morning, light westerly airs, sky clear in the west, and gradually presented one clear expanse all around. Wind in light moderate breezes from north-westward through the day, Night clear.

Sunday, 25.—Dry clear weather; thin cirrous clouds across the sky; wind from west and west-north-west; light and moderate breezes. Night calm and moon beautifully bright.

Monday, 26.—Fresh west-south-westerly breezes, sharp and dry early part, and a cloudless sky. Middle and latter part blew very fresh from westward; light cirrous clouds in zenith. During the evening fell a calm, and continued so till after midnight. Moon bright and sky cloudless.

Inspectors of Distilleries.—His Excellency the Governor has appointed Mr. William Hobbs, chief constable at Wollombi, and Mr. Frederick Carman, chief constable at Geelong, to be Inspectors of Distilleries.

Slaughter-Houses.—His Excellency the Governor has appointed Mr. Frederick Carman, chief constable, Geelong, to be Inspector of Slaughter-houses and of Cattle intended to be Slaughtered in the town and district of Geelong; and Mr. William John Bradbury, acting chief constable, to be Inspector of Slaughter-houses and of Cattle intended to be Slaughtered, in the district of Braidwood.

Queanbeyan.—The Court of Petty Sessions at Queanbeyan have appointed Mr. Alfred Witts to be Bailiff of the Court of Requests at Queanbeyan.

Cooma.—Mr Robert Dawson has been appointed Registrar, and Mr. Charles Walters bailiff, of the Court of Requests at Cooma, in the district of Monaroo.

The Rev Mr. Huie.—The clerk read the minutes of the Presbytery of Stirling in this case, from which it appeared that the people of Larbert, who are about to be deprived of their pastor (Mr. Bonar), had desired to give a call to Mr. Huie, who had been ordained as a missionary to Australia, but who refused to entertain the proposal unless the voice of the Church declared it to be his duty to do so. The Presbytery referred to the Commission and to the Colonial Committee, believing that, by receiving the expression of the views of the brethren there, they might in some measure be able to ascertain what the voice of the Church might in this matter be. A long discussion took place upon the subject, in the course of which it was stated by Dr. Duncan, that if they allowed the people of Larbert to give a call to Mr. Huie, it might involve the Church in some difficulty, as he had been granted ordination before finishing his curriculum, on the distinct understanding that he was to go out as a missionary to Australia. The Committee ultimately came to a resolution declining to entertain the case. [The above is from the published proceedings of the Commission of the Free Church of Scotland. We presume therefore that Mr Huie will come on to Sydney, as originally intended.—Eds]

Police Court—Tuesday.—The names of the magistrates on the roster were John Stirling and William Thurlow, Esq., neither of whom were on the bench. The cases were twelve drunkards, six general charges, and two summons cases, which were disposed of before half-past twelve, before the Mayor, Mr. Windeyer, and Captain Innes.

SERVANTS' CASE.—Mr. A. Campbell appeared at the Police Office on Monday, to answer a claim for three months' servant's wages made by J. Waters. It appeared that defendant had hired plaintiff and his wife as general in-door and out-door servants for three calendar months, from the 21st January to the 21st April, engaging to pay ten pounds as wages; that it was defendant's practice to leave home early in the morning and return in the evening, leaving his domestic affairs under the management of his wife; that on the 17th February, on his return home he found plaintiff and his wife absent; that next morning plaintiff and his wife met defendant on the steamer wharf, Sydney, and was followed by them up to his counting house, where plaintiff demanded wages; that plaintiff showed them the 2nd section of the Master and Servant's Act, relating to breach of contract, and refused to pay any wages, saying that he knew all that had taken place, and that they were entitled to none. These facts, though resting entirely on the evidence of the plaintiff, and elicited partly by cross-examination, were not disputed. But it was also alleged by plaintiff that defendant's wife had dismissed them from their service, by the words "you are no longer my servants," although it was clear from cross-examination of plaintiff that an altercation, and a positive disobedience of two hours' duration, had taken place; and defendant offered to prove by the testimony of his wife, that the circumstances were of a nature warranting immediate dismissal, but that nevertheless the dismissal was only conditional, being in these words, 'if you disobey my orders you are no longer my servants." The Bench ruled that the defendant's wife could not be received as a witness. It further appeared, but only by the cross-examination of plaintiff by Mr. Hayward, who appeared for defendant, that plaintiff had been earning wages as a well-sinker since his dismissal, to the amount of upwards of five pounds. Mr. Hayward submitted that the 5th section of the Act gave the Bench power "to examine the parties and their respective witnesses." The Court held that the wife was no party, and could not be a legal witness. Mr. Hayward further urged that a written discharge was necessary, and therefore it must, without such being given or demanded, be held to be a case of desertion. The Court were of opinion, that the defendant ought to have taken out a warrant against the plaintiff for that offence. Award—one month's wages, and 5s. 2d. costs

The order of sale at Mr. Lloyd's Rooms, this day will be as follows:—Curled horsehair, chipped logwood, Manila rope, vinegar, groceries, stationery, toys. To commence at 11 precisely.—Communicated.

EXTENSIVE SALE OF DRAPERY GOODS.—We are requested by Mr. Mort to call the attention of drapers, mercers, and dealers, to Mr. Mort's sale of soft goods, all new styles and choice patterns, just landed, to take place at the Stores of Messrs. Smith and Campbell, Campbell's Wharf, this day, at eleven o'clock.—Communicated.

Mr. E. Fawcett begs to call the attention of millers and capitalists to the sale of the steam flour mill and other valuable properties at the Paterson, advertised for this day at twelve o'clock, and offering a first-rate opportunity of investing capital and carrying on a business of the most lucrative kind in one of the best districts of the colony.—Communicated.

CITY PROPERTIES.—Mr. Samuel Lyons sells, this day, at his Mart, at eleven o'clock precisely, two houses and land at the corner of Prince-street and Essex-street; also, three allotments of land near Victoria Terrace; and one allotment in Wentworth-street, Miller's Point. Capitalists and others wishing to invest money with a certain advantage, will find this sale worthy of their particular attention.—Communicated.

NEWS FROM THE INTERIOR.

(From our Correspondents.)

PARRAMATTA.

ROBBERY BY A SERVANT—THEFT UPON THEFT—A man of the name of Robert Nimrod, was yesterday (Tuesday) committed for trial for robbing his employer, the Rev. James Walker, M.A., of the King's School From the evidence given in support of the charge, it appeared that at about two o'clock in the morning, constable Watson meeting the prisoner carrying a somewhat bulky bundle, stopped him and made some enquiries as to its contents, on which Nimrod threw it on the ground, and told the constable to look at it, and on its being examined, the constable found part of a shoulder of mutton, some salt cooked meat, a fancy loaf, and one of household bread, and which in answer to farther interrogatories, the prisoner stated he was about to take to a house, which is not considered in Parramatta to bear a very good reputation. Nimrod subsequently confessing that he had taken the provisions from Mr. Walker's, without Mr. W.'s knowledge. Constable Watson took him thither, and saw Mr. Walker, junior, who declined at that hour of the night taking any notice of the circumstance, and the prisoner was then left by the constable at Mr. Walker's, but was on his returning there at a later hour of the morning given into custody. Nimrod on this went into his bed-room for the purpose of collecting his clothes, and tied up in a handkerchief four towels, a pair of trousers, and two white jackets, but which the constable refused allowing him to remove until they had been seen by Mr. Walker, and on that gentleman overhauling the bundle, the four towels were identified by him as his property; as also the pair of trousers as belonging to one of his sons, and which several articles had been purloined from a clothes' basket.

CATTLE SALES.—At a sale of stock by Mr. Stephenson, at the Market-place on Saturday, the following were the average prices obtained:—Milch cows, £3 15s.; springers, £2 5s.; heifers, (very young), £1.

BERRIMA.

APRIL 24.—THE WEATHER.—The weather for some time past has been very variable; we have had occasional showers with a cold south-westerly wind. Cold weather appears to have set in here

ROADS—We perceive notices have been posted in various parts of the town, signed by the Warden, calling for tenders for the repair of the road between Bargo (at Loseby's Inn) and Berrima; but as yet none have been offered. We have been informed that the road in the neighbourhood of Paddy's River and the Hanging Rock is in a very dangerous state, and therefore equally with the other portion of the line requires immediate repair

ELECTORAL LISTS.—The Bench of Magistrates have fixed the 3rd of May next, for holding a Court of Petty Sessions for the revision of the Electoral List. There are three additional claimants.

BERRIMA CHURCH.—The inhabitants of the town are anxiously looking forward to the arrival of the contractor, to proceed with the erection of the church. Much credit is due to trustees in having brought their labours to so favourable a termination. The building will cost £900, and if completed according to the plan, will be a very handsome edifice, and add an additional feature to the beauty of the town.

PUBLICANS' LICENSES.—On Tuesday last, the magistrates proceeded to the consideration of applications for licenses. After granting fifteen applications the Court adjourned for one week, for the consideration of the remainder of the applications.

BATHURST.

THE WEATHER.—On Saturday night, the 17th, and Sunday morning until about noon, we had occasional slight showers of rain; and during the whole of Sunday night a strong and rather boisterous wind blew from the northward. On Monday rain commenced about eight A.M., and continued, with little intermission, until about two P.M., when it cleared off. Since then we have had slight showers. On Friday morning rain set in about three A.M., coming down in steady gentle showers, and continuing until four P.M., when it cleared off from the town and Plains, but an appearance of a heavy fall on the mountains.

HORSE-STEALING.—On Thursday, the 22nd instant, Constables Finnirty and Horan apprehended a man named Henry Carroll, charged with horse-stealing, and for whose apprehension a warrant had long been issued.

LICENSING MEETING.—On Tuesday, the 20th instant, the magistrates assembled at the Court-house for the purpose of deciding on granting certificates to the numerous applicants for publicans' licenses for the year commencing on the 1st of July next. To the undermentioned old houses certificates were granted without any objection, viz:—Mr. James Arthur, Carriers' Arms, William-street; Mrs Mary Black, Golden Fleece, Durham-street; Mr E. Davis, Globe Inn, Russell-street; Mr. R. Evans, Freemasons' Arms, Durham-street; Mr. William Fowler, Dan O'Connell, George-street; Mr. J. Lewis, Queen's Arms, William-street; Mr. D. Popelara, Elephant and Castle, George-street; Mr. N. Read, Good Woman, William-street; Mr. H. Rotton, Victoria Inn, William-street; Mr. John Tait, Black Bull Inn, Howick-street; and Mrs Wordley, White Horse Inn, George street, Mr M. Armstrong applied for a license for the Hibernian Hotel, now in the occupation of Mr. Peter White, the owner of the premises: Armstrong was refused, the magistrates declining to assign a reason. Mr. J. Cronan applied for a license for premises in Bentinck-street, the property of a son of the late Mr. George Wallace, but was refused. Application was made by Mr. J. Fitzpatrick, for premises lately erected by Mr F. Morgan, in Durham-street; refused. A certificate was granted to Mr. J. Declout for a house lately erected by him in Piper-street, at the extremity of the town, near the road to Wellington, &c.; the house at present occupied by him, the Coach and Horses, Kelso, has been let to Mr. L. Shortill, who applied for and obtained a certificate. Application was made by Mr. Henry Hart for premises opposite the Golden Fleece Inn; granted. Mr. J. M'Crae, the present tenant of the latter inn, applied, but was refused. Renewals were granted to the following roadside houses in the vicinity of Bathurst:—Mrs. Jones. New Inn, Green Swamp; Mr. J. Lister, Robinhood, Rocks; Mr. George Luck, Evans's Plains; and Mr D. Roberts, Plough Inn, O'Connell Plains. Application was made by Mr. Donnolly, for a license for the Bathurst Arms, at Diamond Swamp, at present in the occupation of Mr J. Walton. This case was remanded, to enable the applicant to obtain certificates of character, not being sufficiently known in the district. An application was made by Mr. Bentick for a license to the house at present occupied by Mr. J. M'Kay, at Meadow Flat,—refused.

ENGLISH NEWS.

MONEY MARKET.

THURSDAY NIGHT, DECEMBER 10.—This has been the first day of the shutting of Consols, and without much business being done there has been considerable fluctuation of price. Consols opened at 95¼ to ⅜ for the opening in January; but they were afterwards done in the course of the day as low as 95 at one time, and at another as high as 95⅜ buyers; they finally closed at 95⅛ to ¼. The Three-per-Cents. Reduced closed at 94⅞ to 5; the Three and-a-Quarter per Cents. at 95 to ⅛; and Bank Stock at 206½ to 207½. Exchequer-bills are without change, the quotations still being 9s. to 12s. premium

In the Foreign Market Mexican Stock is a little improved, the quotations being 23⅛ to ⅜. Spanish Stock is without change. Active Bonds being 26⅛ to ⅜; the Three per Cents. 37⅞ to ⅛; Deferred, 17 to ⅛; and Passive, 5⅛ to ¼. Portuguese Stock is flatter and somewhat lower in price, the Four per Cents. being 37 to 39, and the Three per Cents. 38 to 40. The other kinds of Foreign Stock close as follows:—Peruvian, 36 to 8; Danish, 86½ to 7½; Dutch Two-and-a-Half per Cents, 60½ to 1; ditto Four per Cents., 93½ to 3; Belgian Four-and-a-Half per Cents. 95 to 6; ditto Two-and-a-Half per Cents., 53 to 5; Brazilian, 95 to 7; Buenos Ayres, 42 to 5; Chilian, 95 to 7; Equador, 3½ to ¼; Grenada, 19½ to 20½; Venezuela, 40 to 2; Deferred, 12 to 13.

In the Money Market there is the greatest caution observable among large capitalists and bankers, who all show great indisposition to contract engagements for long periods, at the present current rates of interest. The great caution, however, which is now observed will no doubt have the effect of delaying any material rise in the rate of interest some time longer than might otherwise have been the case. The effect of such forethought and caution in modifying, if not in altogether preventing such evils, has been very strikingly illustrated during the last year, in the management of railway liabilities. A rumour very generally prevailed today that the Bank would raise the minimum rate of discount, but no such change has been announced.

IRELAND.

STATE OF THE PROVINCES.—TERRIBLE DESTITUTION.

DUBLIN, DECEMBER 9.—There have not been since the commencement of the visitation such harrowing accounts of suffering and destitution as those received this day. The Mayo Constitution, a Conservative journal, published in Castlebar, announces nine deaths from absolute want, and reports the inquests upon seven of the unfortunate sufferers! After the examination of medical men, the juries in all those cases returned verdicts, declaring that insufficiency of food was the cause of death. I have abridged the accounts of the inquests in the paper I have named:—

"In the neighbourhood of Turlough, a poor man named Francis Bradley, died last week from starvation. The poor wretch made several unsuccessful applications to the Relief Committee. A poor woman, named Walsh, also died last week from hunger. She was feeble and unable to work.

"On the 29th ult. Mr. Atkinson, coroner, held an inquest at Ballina, on the body of Hugh Daly, Verdict—Death from starvation.

"On Thursday last he held another inquest on the body of Michael Walsh, at Crossmolina. Verdict—Death from famine.

"On the same day he held another inquest, in the same town, on the body of a man named Martin M'Gevir. After the examination of Dr. M'Nair and several witnesses, the Jury found, 'That the death of deceased was caused by want of sufficient food.'

"On Saturday Mr. Atkinson held an inquest on the body of John Barrett, at Cloonralogh, in the locality of Killala. Several witnesses gave evidence as to the state of destitution in which the deceased was. Doctor Neilson deposed, that from his examination of the body, he had no hesitation in stating that the death of the deceased was caused by insufficiency of food. The jury returned a verdict that the deceased died for want of food; and they further stated, that to their own knowledge destitution prevails to a frightful extent in this neighbourhood, and that unless speedy relief be given many must perish for the want of food.

"On Sunday the same coroner held an inquest on the body of Anthony Malley, at Notish, near Crossmolina. After the examination of several witnesses and Dr. M'Nair, the Jury returned a verdict of want of food being the cause of his death, and said that destitution prevailed to an alarming extent in the neighbourhood.

"On the same day he held another inquest on the body of John Monnelly, at Ballymoholy. The evidence of the witnesses, and also that of Dr. M'Nair, showed the destitution in which the deceased had been. It also appeared that there are seventy habitations in the village, and the population about 350, not one of whom are employed on the public works.

"William Rutledge, Esq., coroner, held an inquest at Shanguria, on the 5th instant, on the body of Michael Lally, who came by his death from starvation. After examining several witnesses, including Dr. Hamilton, of Ballinrobe, the jury found that the said Michael Lally came by his death from starvation."

The Mayo Constitution also contains the following melancholy statement.

"We regret to say that disease of the most fatal description is very prevalent. Typhus fever, of a malignant character, rages; and also a disease—for which we know no term, but of equally fatal consequences—has made its appearance. It attacks the lips first, which fester, and then the stomach, somewhat similar to English cholera; so much so, that we have heard of a great number of persons having fallen victims to this latter disease."

From other districts the accounts are quite deplorable.

COUNTY TIPPERARY.—NENAGH, DECEMBER 9.—We continue to receive most heart-rending details of suffering and woe. The picture is becoming gloomier every day. The condition of the labouring population is truly alarming in every part of the country from which we hear Where this dreadful state of things may end God alone knows. It baffles all the calculations and speculations of man. Colonel Douglas attended a meeting of the Thurles relief committee on Saturday. That gentleman, we learn, is in Nenagh this day (Wednesday).—Tipperary Vindicator.

MEETING OF THE KILKENNY RELIEF COMMITTEE.

A special meeting of the city relief committee, to take into consideration the measures to be adopted in consequence of the want of employment and food for the labouring classes, was held on Sunday.

Various plans of relief were suggested—one was to increase the extern relief to two meals a day, or the opening of soup-houses; but it was decided that something was necessary to be done to afford employment on the following morning, as the peace of the city was endangered; and upwards of three hours were spent in considering the best course to adopt. A subscription was commenced; several of the gentlemen present gave donations. It was then determined that forty men should be set to work the next morning on the Cork road, ten at the Coole, and twenty at breaking stones. The following members present also took the number of men attached to their names respectively into employ for a week, pending the result of Mr. Sullivan's application to the baronial committee:—Alderman Smithwick, 20; Alderman Potter, 20; Mr. Sullivan, 20; Sir Wheeler Cuffe, 10; Dean Vignoles, 10; Mr. Hart, 10 (besides gratuitously giving a quantity of stones for breakage); Mr. Carter, on his own private account, 10; Mr. Daniel Smithwick, 10.—Kilkenny Journal.

COUNTY OF KERRY.—TRALEE, Dec. 8.—The usual half-weekly meeting of the relief committee was held yesterday. Several complaints were made that persons not entitled to work were employed on the public works to the exclusion of others who had a prior claim to such employment. Rev. Mr. Rowan read a list of twenty-one persons employed upon one road, some of whom were farmers, others had been seen a few days before selling potatoes, and in most instances there were three employed out of a family. Mr. Lynch handed in £50, from Maurice O'Connell, Esq., M.P., making in all £100 subscribed by him to the funds of the relief committee of this district. Mr. Lynch stated also that Mr. O'Connell had contributed £100 to the lighting of this town. The committee again expressed their opinion, that if immediate employment were not given, the public peace could not be preserved.—Kerry Examiner.

DREADFUL OUTRAGES—GOVERNMENT PROCLAMATIONS.

The government have just issued two proclamations, offering rewards for the apprehension of the persons concerned in attacks upon officers of the Board of Works. The first proclamation states that on the 5th instant, William Lindesay, employed as check clerk on the new road at Pollock, parish of Croom, county Limerick, was fired at, and a book offered to him, with a demand that he should swear never again to return to the work. In this case a reward of £60 is offered. The second proclamation refers to the murderous attack on Mr. W. Hennessey, an officer of the Board of Works in Clare, and offers a reward of £100.

REPORTED MURDER OF AN OFFICER OF THE BOARD OF WORKS.

The Evening Mail contains the following:—"We have just heard (on what we consider competent authority) that an overseer of the Board of Works has been most inhumanly murdered in the county of Clare. He is said to have been cut to pieces with reaping hooks."

THE LANDLORDS—PRODUCTIVE WORKS.

There are, at length, indications of common prudence on the part of the landlords in some districts. I shall commence with the county of Meath. Mr. Lambert Disney, agent to the Darnley estates, presided at a meeting of the relief committee of the barony of Lune, in that county, held yesterday, in Athboy. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted in favour of productive works:—

"That all the landed proprietors in the barony be earnestly requested to attend at the Darnley Arms, Athboy, upon Thursday, the 17th instant, at twelve o'clock, to take into consideration the best means to be adopted to carry on useful and reproductive works in the several electoral divisions of Athboy, Rathmore, Kildalkey, and Killiconegan.

"That the magistrates and cesspayers feel it to be their duty not only under the provision of the Labour Rate Act, not only from the dictates of humanity, to provide ample employment for every able-bodied man requiring it in the barony; and that, as it will be difficult after the next few weeks to find a hill to be cut down, unless the proprietors come forward, and either by mutual agreement with their tenants, or under the provisions of Mr. Labouchere's letter, make arrangements for carrying on useful and reproductive works, that employment must be found in making new lines of road, which are really not wanting in the barony, and towards the expense of which the proprietors must contribute one-half, and the making of which can only be defended on the paramount one of all others, viz.,—'that the poor perish not from want.'

"That a return, showing what useful and reproductive works can be carried on in the several divisions, be prepared for the consideration of the meeting, to be held on Thursday, the 17th instant; also showing what new lines of roads it will be necessary to have presentments made for, in the event of the landed proprietors not coming forward to aid the committee in carrying out useful and reproductive works—and that such landed proprietors as cannot attend the meeting on the 17th instant, are requested to signify their assent to useful and reproductive works being carried on, to our chairman, on or before the day of meeting.

"That our chairman be requested to apply to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant to have another presentment sessions held at Athboy, for the barony of Lune, the last week of the present month."

In the King's County, also, Mr. Labouchere's circular begins to find favour amongst the landed proprietors:—

EXTRAORDINARY PRESENTMENT SESSIONS FOR THE BARONY OF CLONLISK.—On Friday, pursuant to the proclamation of the Lord Lieutenant, an extraordinary presentment sessions for the barony of Clonlisk was held at the Court House, Shinrone. The meeting was numerously and respectably attended, and the assemblage of clergy, magistrates, and gentry was the largest ever held in that locality on any similar occasion.

Lieutenant Hamilton handed forms of application under the Drainage Act to the gentry.

Mr. Charles Minchin, of Rutland, complained that numbers of men having twelve acres of land at Dunkerrin were employed on public works, whilst others were actually starving and wanting work. It was in the power of Lieutenant Hamilton to take them into employment.

Lieutenant Hamilton remarked: It is by the direction of the Relief Committee and according to the orders of the Board of Works that I give employment to the poor. It would be very presumptuous in me to disemploy any man without reference to the Relief Committee.

Colonel Lloyd was moved to the chair.

The meeting, after some desultory discussion, agreed upon the motion of Colonel Lloyd, to act under Mr. Labouchere's letter, and to levy 3s. in the pound on each electoral division in the barony, according to the poor-law valuation made by Mr. Scroope, which amounted to £27,499 5s.

An adjournment till Tuesday then took place. Lieut. Hamilton advised the gentry to take their time and consider well what works were to be agreed on.

The Marquis of Sligo, with good feeling and forethought, is about to drain extensively on his own account. The Rev. R. Potter, perpetual curate of Louisburgh, in a letter to the Mayo Constitution, dated Dec. 3, says—

"The system of subsoiling and drainage of the land is to be commenced as soon as possible in this place, on the property of the Marquess of Sligo. This important operation is to be carried on by the noble marquess himself. And this is by far a better way than that our great landed proprietors should hold back and leave their lands to be taken up for improvement by the legislature. This would be a happy change for the parish of Louisburgh. There is a vast quantity of highly improvable mountain in the parish, and I believe there is not any soil of the same description in any other part of Ireland which would be found so reproductive, or which would so well repay for any trouble or money expended in reclaiming the land."

The reverend gentleman also states—"There is some hope of a better state of things amongst the poor here. We have got an addition of about 300 tickets. When these are disposed of we shall have about 1400 or 1500 men employed. By the time we shall have obtained permission to employ 600 or 800 more, there will not, I think, be any of the starving poor without one ticket in each family."

VOLUNTARY ASSESSMENT FOR EMPLOYMENT

Respecting the movement in Ballymena, county of Antrim, to which I have already called your attention, the Northern Whig contains the following:—

"We entertain a hope that the request of the towns-people of Ballymena, to be relieved from general taxation under an extraordinary presentment sessions, would be granted on guarantee to support their own unemployed poor; and the subjoined statement confirms us in our opinion that it should be so. Government arrangements could hardly be made with the same amount of despatch, accuracy, and economy as those detailed below. Within three days from holding a public meeting funds were subscribed, and machinery arranged by the voluntary efforts of the gentlemen of the employment committee; and we add, that the noble subscriptions placed at their disposal prove the unanimity of the town on this occasion. The total expense of the staff, we understand is merely 10s. per week to an overseer. It should be borne in mind that the proceedings at Ballymena, in respect of unemployed labourers resident in the town, are conceived strictly in the spirit of the poor-law in reference to the destitute poor. A local claim to local relief is recognised in both instances; and we observe with so much satisfaction the principle of local government vindicated, in this instance, that we hope the Government will afford the relief desired. We know that such a power is not conveyed by the Act of Parliament—but neither were reproductive works authorised; and the principle under which the letter of the law was nobly violated, that the spirit might be observed, is equally worthy of deference now as then. We proceed to lay before our readers the statement referred to:—On Saturday morning, by eight o'clock, in consequence of the prompt arrangements of the employment committee, work was supplied to the resident unemployed labourers of Ballymena, to the number of 107, as follows: 41 were engaged breaking stones in a field close adjoining the town, under the superintendence of a clerk; 66 were employed by Sir Shafto Adair, at labour in his demesne, making 107; and 40 others (making 147 in all) were still retained by the different gentlemen who had, the previous week, engaged to supply work till Saturday evening. There now appears about 170 persons on the list for employment; and arrangements have already been made to find work for that number."

RETURN OF THE LORD LIEUTENANT.

The Lord Lieutenant and suite return to-morrow to the Vice-regal Lodge, from his Excellency's residence in the county of Kilkenny.

MEASURES OF RELIEF—LABOUR RATE ACT.

Extraordinary presentment sessions have been convened in fifteen baronies, making the entire proclamations already issued by the Lord Lieutenant, under the Labour Rate Act, 408.

POOR LAW—OUT-DOOR RELIEF.

The guardians of the Skibbereen union, county of Cork, held an extraordinary meeting on Saturday, to consider the expediency of establishing a system of out-door relief in the various electoral divisions of the union, "in consequence of the awful state of destitution, the extremely crowded state of the workhouse, and the danger of violent epidemic." After a lengthened discussion, in which the state of the law was referred to as prohibiting out-door relief, a resolution was adopted, declaring the necessity of such a system, under present circumstances, and directing that the advice and assistance of the poor law commissioners should be sought for.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS—RELIEF OF THE PEOPLE.

The Cork Reporter, after quoting my statement respecting the mission of Mr. Foster, makes the following gratifying statement:—

"We have before us the circular issued by the central committee in Dublin to the body of friends residing in the provinces. It is admirably written, and so well, that we are tempted to make one short extract—the first section of the document:—

"A visitation of Divine Providence, blighting that species of food which has hitherto formed the chief sustenance of a large proportion of the population of this country, has reduced multitudes around us to a condition of sore and pressing want; and in venturing to look forward to the approaching period when the remnant of the potato crop may be generally consumed, the consideration becomes truly appalling. So extensive is the calamity, that the exertions of the benevolent, as to any general and united action, appear to have been to a considerable degree paralysed, and a disposition is evinced to leave to the government alone the task of providing food for the people. Under these trying circumstances, it is incumbent on us to consider what is the duty required at our hands. Much has been done and is doing by those charged with the administration of public affairs to relieve the existing distress, and in the great extent of public works now in progress there is evidence of their earnest endeavours to afford that assistance which could hardly be done by any combination of private persons. We regret to observe that these endeavours are not everywhere seconded by the zealous and disinterested co-operation of the inhabitants of the respective districts, and we consider it highly important that an example of energetic, united, and well-directed effort, by independent individuals of all classes, should be exhibited much more generally than it has hitherto been. Without such hearty co-operation the measures of the government cannot be fully carried out, and it is to be remembered that a large amount of the prevailing distress can only be reached by the exercise of private benevolence! and that for want of accommodation in the union poor houses adequate to the present exigency, a vast number of persons, widows and fatherless, unless otherwise cared for, are in danger of actual starvation.'

"The circular is signed by Joseph Bewley and Jonathan Pim, secretaries, and a list of subscriptions, amounting in the whole to nearly 3000*l*. is appended. The subscriptions of the society in Waterford, amount to about 800*l*., and in Cork, we are aware that the members of this excellent class of citizens are already in the field."

EMPLOYMENT ON PUBLIC DRAINAGE.

The Cork Reporter contains the following valuable statement:—

PUBLIC DRAINAGE WORKS IN THE WEST RIDING OF CORK.

Total number of men and horses on the following Drainage Works for the week ending the 5th December, 1846:—

Ballinhassig, 84 men and 5 horses; Ratooragh, 120 men; Owenkeagh, 572 men and 2 horses; Clonakilty, 4661 men, 36 artificers, and 1678 horses. Total, 5437 men, 36 artificers, and 1685 horses.

The earnings of the men on the Clonakilty works (embankment of the slob) last week were from 15d. to 16d. per day, though they cannot labour the full hours, owing to the interruption from the tide. They are paid by task work, receiving a sum on account weekly, and the work is measured and paid up in full every fortnight. The people are working quietly and satisfactorily, and feel quite grateful for the regularity with which their work is measured and their wages paid. Such is their anxiety to earn money, that nine horses were killed there last week from overwork.

The survey of the Arigadeen river, from Carrigfadda to Timoleague and Courtmasherry, is now nearly completed by Mr. King, the efficient officer of the board in that district, and it is expected that the drainage of it will be ready to be commenced by the time the other works are completed.

CRIME IN THE COUNTY OF MAYO.

WHITEBOYISM.—On Monday, the 30th ultimo, the house of a miller, named Ryan, who lives at Furnace, near Newport, was attacked by a party of armed men, who broke into the house and beat him in a brutal manner. They then broke open his chest and robbed him of £3 15s., and three bags of oatmeal. After committing these robberies they decamped, firing several shots. The party had their faces blackened and their coats turned. Six of the ruffians were lodged in the county gaol on Sunday last, and warrants are in the hands of the Police for the rest of the party.

ROBBERY AND APPEARING ARMED.—On the 25th ultimo, the house of William Coolican, of Cloonlaw, near Killala, was attacked by an armed party of men, who robbed him of £6 in notes, two crocks of butter, and several other articles. Three of the party have been identified and committed to gaol to abide their trial. The party broke several articles of furniture, and threatened Coolican not to mention their being at his house.

MURDER.—On Monday, a fellow named John M'Donagh, of Carrowbean, was made amenable for having violently beaten a poor man, named Patrick Deacy, on the 19th November, from the effects of which beating he died in a few hours. We have heard that some slight dispute about the price of a pig was the cause of this brutal murder. Deacy has left a large family, who were solely dependent on his earnings for support.

KILLING SHEEP.—On Saturday night last, three sheep were stolen off the lands of Netly, the property of Henry William Knox, Esq. On examination it was found that the sheep were killed in the neighbourhood, and the flesh stolen, leaving the hides and entrails. One of the persons charged with the felony has been arrested and committed to prison.—Mayo Constitution.

MR. O'CONNELL.

To the Editor of the Freeman.

My dear sir,—Your reports in general are so accurate, and my speech was so very lengthy, as the Americans call it, that it would be impossible for me to feel any resentment at some mistakes.

This sentiment is quite consistent with my correcting casual errors. For example—you make me express a hope that the Duke of Leinster, the Marquess of Downshire, and Lord Lurgan would attend a general meeting in Dublin of landed proprietors. I did not express any such hope respecting these noblemen. On the contrary, I am aware the Duke of Leinster has long since declared, and often repeated, that he would take no part in political agitation; and I did not mention the names of the other noblemen with any such view as you have mentioned.

On the other hand, there is an omission. I did mention the name of Lord Clancarty, as one who might possibly attend a meeting of landed proprietors in Dublin.

I avail myself of this opportunity once again to proclaim emphatically my conviction, that neither the British Government, nor the Irish landed proprietors, are sufficiently aware of the enormous and almost incalculable extent of the destruction of human food in Ireland—nor are they, in my opinion, sufficiently alarmed or terrified at the hideous prospect of continued starvation, now so fatally manifesting itself.—Believe me to be, your very faithful servant, DANIEL O'CONNELL.

Merrion-square, 8th December, 1846.

THE ARMY

BELFAST, DEC. 8.—THE 44TH.—The Colonel of this regiment, General the Hon. Sir Patrick Stuart, is Governor and Commander-in-Chief of Malta. He got the corps since the Cabul disaster. The regiment has 179 recruits now at drill. It has fewer married women attached to it than the weakest corps on home duty at present. Its total strength, of all grades, with the exception of officers, up to yesterday, is just 1127; and only 92 of them have wives, at least with the regiment—63 in barracks, and 29 in quarters (lodgings). The weakest corps we have had in Belfast for many years past was the 54th, and they had more than double this number of married women.—Northern Whig.

CHILD DESERTION AND MURDER.—Catherine Gordon, James Loftus, and Mary Loftus, of Ratheskin, were committed to our county prison on Monday, charged with having attempted to murder a new-born female child by burying it alive at Ratheskin. Through the instrumentality of the police this wicked crew have been detected. The child has since died.—Mayo Constitution.

DEATH OF ADMIRAL LORD AMELIUS BEAUCLERK, G.C.B. and G.C.H.—It is with feelings of regret we announce the decease of Admiral Lord Amelius Beauclerk, one of the oldest officers in the British Navy. The melancholy event took place on the 10th December, at his seat, Winchfield House, Hants, after a protracted illness. The noble lord was born in August, 1771, being the son of Aubrey, fifth Duke of St. Albans, and was, consequently, uncle to the present Duke. He entered the navy at a very early age, and, after a probationary service as midshipman, was appointed lieutenant in 1790, and was posted on the 16th of September, 1793. In 1811 he was promoted to the rank of rear-admiral, in 1819 to that of vice-admiral, and on the 22nd of July, 1830, he received his commission as admiral of the red. The noble lord, when captain of the Juno, beat off the French frigate Junon, a corvette, and a brig near the Hières Islands, 1794, and in Hotham's action, March, 1795, he also particularly distinguished himself. In 1796, when captain of the Dryad, he captured the French frigate Proserpine. In the Walcheren expedition he commanded the Royal Oak. He subsequently directed other operations, and a few years since had the command of the fleet in the Tagus. The deceased nobleman was honoured with the particular notice of the late King, to whom he was appointed principal aide-de camp. He was a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath, as well as of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order. He was a Fellow of the Royal Society, and member of some other scientific institutions.

DEATH OF LORD STOURTON.—This venerable nobleman, the representative of one of the oldest Roman Catholic families in the empire, died on the 4th instant at his seat, Allerton House, Yorkshire, aged 71, after a protracted illness. The deceased nobleman, William Stourton, Baron Stourton, of Stourton, county of Wilts, was born June 6, 1776, and succeeded to the title April 29, 1816. In 1800 he married Catherine, daughter of Thomas Weld, Esq., of Lulworth Castle, Dorsetshire, by whom he had fourteen children. His lordship was the elder brother of the Honourable Sir Edward Vavasour, Bart., and of the Honourable Charles Langdale, late M.P. for Knaresborough, both leading members of the Roman Catholic party. In politics the deceased was a decided Reformer. The Honourable Charles Stourton, who succeeds to the title and estates, married August 1, 1825, the Honourable Lucy Clifford, sixth daughter of Lord Clifford, of Chudleigh, and has issue by her, four children.

REPEAL ASSOCIATION, MONDAY.—The usual weekly meeting, a crowded one, of the Repeal Association, was held on Monday in Conciliation Hall. It was remarked, though, perhaps the circumstances was merely accidental, that the government reporters, who since the monster meeting at Mullaghmast have always been present, were on this occasion, absent from the Hall. On the motion of Mr. O'Connell, Andrew Russell Stritch, Esq., barrister, took the chair. Mr. O'Connell handed in 55*l*. as the subscription of the present members of his family for the year 1847, and then said he never spoke under such embarrassment, not knowing how to instruct the people in the present distress. He had hoped to return to the country, but he sacrificed all pleasure and even health, in order to serve the people. He defended the Board of Works. He would assist any party that had any business to do with them, and would ensure them every attention from the board; but he thought they had far too much to do. Their number ought to be doubled. The Government had not the means to meet the difficulties of the case; they had not calculated upon its extent. In Cork, there was, last week, no Indian corn to be had. In addition to all this, the people were arming. A violent outbreak would ruin everybody. He trusted that his voice against it would be heard. He deprecated an outbreak, and conjured the people to hear his warning voice. It was a deplorable fact that the small farmers were not able to cultivate the ground. The government ought to pay the people for cultivating their own land. With respect to the landed proprietors, they are becoming daily plunged in greater and greater distress. Something decisive must be done by the landed proprietors, or their properties would be gone. His proposal was, that there should be a great meeting in Dublin to consider what they ought to do. The leading gentry from the north, south, east, and west, should assemble in Dublin. The objection was, that this would be a sort of Irish Parliament; but what then? His plan then was—that they should demand a loan of £30,000,000 sterling, payable out of the resources of Ireland. Ireland would thus be able to right herself. Such was his plan. There was one great drawback: dissension had broken out among them. It was a sad characteristic of the Irish. The perils of dissension were great and increasing. He did not wish to embitter the quarrel; his anxiety was to heal the breach. He had looked over a report of the debate at the Rotunda. He now saw that they in a great measure disclaimed the physical force principle. If they went a little further, they would be as welcome back to the association as the flowers of May. He proposed then a private conference. (Vehement cheers.) He named Sir Colman O'Laughlin and Mr. O'Hagan as two referees, along with himself, Mr. W. S. O'Brien, Mr. Dillon, and Mr. O'Hea. He would be charged with compromising; but he would make any sacrifice for the good of the country. (Cheers.) Mr. J. O'Connell declared himself happy that there was a prospect of reconciliation without any sacrifice of principle.

THE POPE'S ENCYCLICAL LETTER.—The encyclical letter of Pope Pius IX. to the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church, and of which 40,500 copies have been printed for circulation, was published at Rome on the 23rd ult. This document, which fills no less than fifteen pages in folio, commences with an eulogium on the late pope, and then speaks of the attacks made upon the Catholic Church by the enemies of religion, who are divided by the writer into different classes, amongst whom he designates those who deny revelation, blasphemers, those who make subordinate to reason the authority of the church and the Word of God, sectarians, persons indifferent to religion, those who attack the celibacy of the priesthood, communists, false devotees, &c. The remainder of the letter consists of exhortations to the clergy. Their duties are pointed out in the triple relation of doctrine, discipline, and private life. The bishops are invited, before they confer holy orders, to examine the candidates closely, and convince themselves that they are worthy of receiving them; they are in this examination to be very particular as to the education and morals of the candidates. The education of young ecclesiastics, says the Pope, should commence with infancy. The best means of edifying the faithful and preventing defection is, adds his Holiness, the simple preaching of the word of God, without the false pomp of eloquence. The letter concludes with a prayer addressed "to the throne of mercy, under the invocation and intercession of the Mother of God, of Mary, the immaculate Virgin, of the Prince of the Apostles, to whom Jesus confided the keys of heaven, of the Apostle St. Paul, and all the saints," and with the apostolic benediction.

THE GRAIN MARKET AND IRELAND.—The following is an extract from the circular of Mr. Nevins, referring especially to the state of the corn markets in Ireland, and the unexampled requirements of the country:—"An increase in the number of persons employed, from week ending 3rd of October, when the first notice was published, to that ending 28th November, from 26,193 to 273,023! and of weekly expenditure, from £6193 0s. 7d. to £117,591 1s. 4d.! A daily outlay of £14,058 8s. 3d.; and this is only the beginning of the famine! the whole of which is applied to the purchase of grain in substitution of potatoes. Where, or in what is this to end? The whole Irish people are rushing to fasten themselves on the relief funds. The lands are left unsown, and in many parts the agricultural operations are totally discontinued. The present is, without exaggeration, the most critical moment in the history of Britain; and the result will prove of the most momentous consequences. If the wants of the country progress as they have progressed (and I see nothing else to be anticipated), the month of December present will require two millions of pounds sterling; and we have this, or worse, to look forward to for nine months. When the editor of the Banker's Circular weighed the consequences of the loss of the potatoe crop, did he contemplate this state of things early in December? Will he now inform us what we are to expect in March, in April, and May? for until May, we can expect no relief from the spring shipments. The Baltic will be closed by frost; the northern states of America and the St. Lawrence, will be similarly situated. Any wheat from the Gut of Gibraltar is sent to the Continent; any Indian corn is sent to Ireland, where the mill is the granary to receive to-day, the stomach the receptacle to dispose of it to-morrow. My morning's letters from the south of Ireland state, that the deliveries from the country are almost at an end, that the farmers are coming into the towns to purchase wheat to grind with hand mills for their own consumption. The millers in the interior are quite out of stock, and send into the sea-ports for wheat to meet the demand at their own doors. They quote Indian meal at £17 10s. to £18 per ton, and Indian corn 68s. to 70s. per quarter. The result will be that the towns will very soon be obliged to import for their local wants, and the only source of supply will be the English market. One correspondent writes me, that he looks forward to the future with horror, that he trembles for England as well as Ireland. The pressure of want is already upon Ireland and Scotland. Let England look to herself timely. Consumption has most thoroughly overtaken the supply of every article of grain, with the exception of wheat. This must of necessity continue up to May. Observe the advance of all kinds of grain, with the exception of wheat, the crop of which has alone stood the brunt of the most extensive consumption on record. The coarser descriptions of food have felt the first pressure of want, and consumption having been turned thereon, observe the relative value—good wheat in London, 64 lbs. per bushel, 60s.; Indian corn in Cork, 60 lbs. per bushel, 70s.

DIED.

On Tuesday, the 27th instant, at his son's residence, Kissing Point, Mr. James Shepherd, at the advanced age of eighty-five years. Mr. Shepherd was one of the first and longest residents of the district. His house had been for many years open to the Ministers of the Gospel. He died full of faith and hope, and was respected by all who knew him, and deeply lamented by his family.

IN THE COUNTRY TOWN OF PARRAMATTA,
BETWEEN
CHURCH-STREET THE BRIDGE, AND NEWLAND'S HOUSE, AND THE HIGH ROAD TO AND FROM KISSING POINT
AND
THE PARRAMATTA RIVER.

MR. STUBBS is instructed by the proprietor, (and hereby hastens to make known to all classes of persons residing at Parramatta, Windsor, and Western Roads, Baulkham and Pennant Hills, Kissing Point, &c.),
TO SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION,
ON THE GROUND, PARRAMATTA,
This Day, the 28th of April, 1847,
At twelve o'clock precisely.
The whole of that elevated and healthy portion of the Town of Parramatta, between Newland's House and Church-street, and laid out by the Surveyor in such subdivisions as will suit the views of different classes of purchasers.
In recommending all persons to attend this sale, it is not the wish of the auctioneer to draw any invidious distinctions; but it is his duty nevertheless to point out what the more intelligent geologists have styled "the capriciousness of nature," in having moulded this peculiar spot so as to form
THE BEST SITE FOR THE TOWN.
The lots facing the river are well calculated for the erection of villas, cottage ornées, or the "snug country-box" for retired gentlemen, including the indispensable comfort of summer bathing, angling, and aquatics; and having also the advantage of being close to Marsfield Church, and other places of worship.
The range of building plots on the high road are just the thing for the working classes who benefit by the money circulated weekly in the extensive cloth and flour manufactory of the enterprising proprietors, Messrs. Byrnes and Co., the military expenditure, the Cumberland Flour Mills, and the unproductive capital of the town.
The intermediate allotments are suitable for experimental gardens, the agrémens of the cottage plots.
The terms will be liberal, and the size and situation of the allotments may be seen by a reference to the chart now exhibiting at the rooms of the auctioneer. 5879

Wednesday, 28th Instant.

THE AUCTION AT PARRAMATTA,
FOR
This Day, 28th Instant,
AT 12 O'CLOCK.
TERMS:—12 and 18 months' credit, without interest.
Deposit—20 per cent.
MR. STUBBS hastens to inform the working classes and labouring population, mechanics, and others in and around Parramatta, that the terms of sale for the Allotments adjoining Newlands House, Parramatta, are most liberal, viz.,— 20 per cent. cash deposit, and the residue at 12 and 18 months, by the poor man's promissory note, Without interest.
☞ The sale will take place on the ground. 6620

STEAM FLOUR MILL FOR SALE,

AT THE PATERSON TOWNSHIP, BEING A SURE FORTUNE FOR THE PURCHASER.
MR. R. FAWCETT begs to inform the Millers, Settlers, and Capitalists generally of the Hunter River district, that he has been instructed by the proprietor, Mr. J. R. Houlding, to submit to public competition, at his Sale Room, 481, George-street, Sydney, on
This Day, 28th April,
At twelve o'clock precisely,
THE PATERSON STEAM FLOUR MILL, consisting of twelve horse power steam-engine, with all the latest improvements; two pair stones, dressing and smutting machines, with all the necessary apparatus quite complete, and now in full trade.
The whole of this valuable machinery is quite new, having been purchased in London only a few months since, by a practical man, and pronounced by competent judges to be of the very best description.
The premises on which the machinery stands are held on a ten years lease, at thirty-two pounds per annum, with the option to purchase at any period in the lease, for the sum of four hundred pounds, and consist of an acre of excellent land, more or less, situate in the centre of this flourishing township, on which is erected a capacious mill capable of holding from ten to fifteen thousand bushels of grain.
A comfortable dwelling-house, containing five rooms, a large cellar, kitchen, servants' room, &c., &c.
ALSO,
Stables and out-houses detached, on the bank of the river, and having the right of the wharf.
To persons acquainted with this fertile, thriving, and rapidly improving district, any remarks of the auctioneer would be superfluous, and the only reason the proprietor is disposing of the property is, because he is unable from press of other business to give it his personal superintendence.
Terms liberal, at time of sale. 6391

Monday, 10th May.

10,000 ACRES OF LAND,
AT
PORT MACQUARIE,
IN ONE LOT,
AND
103 ACRES AT PORT MACQUARIE.

MR. SAMUEL LYONS will sell by auction, at his Mart,
On Monday, 10th May,
At 11 o'clock,
WITHOUT RESERVE,
In order to close a Partnership Account,
IN ONE LOT,
10,179 Acres of Land, more or less, at
PORT MACQUARIE,
Situated on, and adjacent to the Rivers Hastings and Wilsons, to Cowarra, Piper's, and Limeburners' Creeks, to Rawdon Island and Rollin Plains.
These properties are among the first sold by the Government in 1837 and 1838, and many of them will be found to possess a great portion of fine alluvial soil, to be well watered and adapted to the growth of agricultural and tropical produce, and as it is in contemplation to finish the road to New England from Port Macquarie, the whole of the TRAFFIC
to and from this important squatting district must evidently pass through the township, and thus render it one of the most important of our NORTHERN SETTLEMENTS.
AFTER THE ABOVE WILL BE SOLD,
Lot 88.—One Allotment in the County Macquarie,
As the Sugar Plantation, Rollin's Plains, being by admeasurement
103 Acres, more or less.
☞ Plans are on view at the Mart.
TERMS:—
Twenty-five per cent. on the fall of the hammer, the residue in approved bills at three, six, nine, and twelve months bills, to bear date from day of sale. 6844

Abstract of title in the hands of Joseph Chambers, Esq., Solicitor.
Conditions of sale made known in future advertisements, or on the day on which the property will be submitted in one lot to public competition
Mr. J. Ledsam respectfully invites the attention of the gentry, merchants, capitalists, and others resident in Sydney, Maitland, and the Hunter River District, to this splendid and extensive property, comprising one hundred and six acres, (more or less), situate one mile from the important and flourishing town of West Maitland.
The property is beautifully situated, enclosed by a substantial three-rail fence, subdivided into paddocks adapted for agricultural and grazing purposes abundantly supplied with water, and proximate to the extensive estates of the Messrs. Hungerfords.
Upon the land capital to a large amount must have been expended, (from £1500 to £2000), the improvements made being multifarious and extensive.
The erection of a mansion on modern principle, to substitute the present antique dwelling, appears to be the only prerequisite to constitute it a princely estate. 6596
